

Little Ellis goes to School

Written and Illustrated by Aria Luo

I'm nervous about ...

homework

making friends

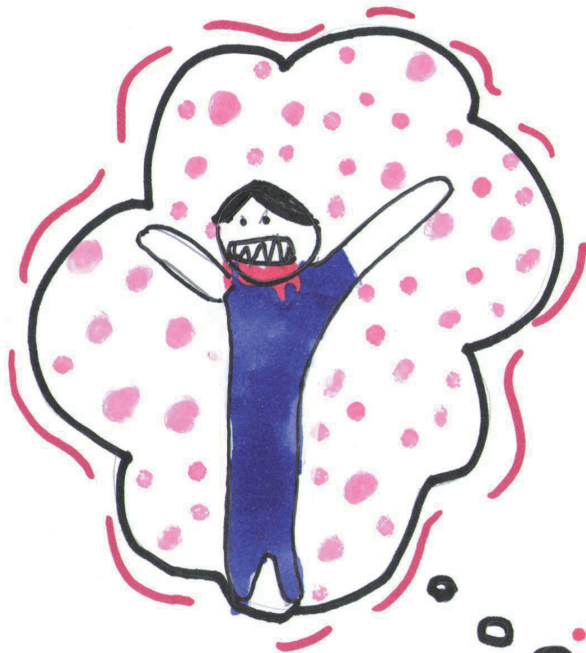

and

classes

teachers

but worst of all...

When it's time to go home, I tell my parents
"I like school! School is fun! I can't wait to go back."

How was your first day at school?

Draw your school here

Colour the feelings you had on your first day.

Remember, all of these feelings are normal.

About the Author

Aria Luo is a global citizen with family in the United States, Canada, and Taiwan. She lives in Shanghai with her parents and attends Dulwich College, where she has nurtured her passions for reading, writing, and drawing. Inspired by her own early memories of starting school as a nervous toddler, Aria decided to write her story to encourage her young cousins, Eloise and Elliot. With her young readers in mind, she chose simple text and bright colors to help convey that school can be a fun experience. Aria wishes for all little children to be inspired by Little Ellis and be brave on their first day at school.
